Of course, when I wrote "UFC" pertaining to King Mo's issue, I meant Zuffa.

 Great thanks.

So here is the situation: I spoke to Bellator's Bjorn Rebney today about the matching rights clause for fighters that have been released. Bellator has it in their contracts, and Dana said last weekend that UFC has it in their contracts, too, although he said it has never been used.

Bjorn said that while that may be true, that Bellator was forced to go through with presenting UFC King Mo's contract

Eventually, he said he would be willing to do away with the section that allows them to release a fighter and retain matching rights if Zuffa would also do the same.

So, basically, I was wondering if the company would like to respond to this offer/challenge in any way, whether it's a statement from you, Dana or someone else?

Please let me know at your earliest convenience.

Best,
mike

Subject: Question

Hi Ant,

Hope all is well. Are you around today? I have a question I'd like to ask.

I am working on a story that requires that I ask the UFC for a response, so I'd like to run it past you. Of course, I'm not quite sure who is in the office and who is heading off to the UK for the event this weekend. Let me know if you have a moment or if I should direct it to someone else.

Thanks,

Mike Chiappetta
